

THE STATE OF ASSESSMENTS

INTRODUCTION

Hiring assessments are amazing tools for creating a more data-driven hiring process. When candidates are plentiful, they can help to narrow down hiring to the best possible choices. When candidates are scarce, assessments can help business leaders to make that critical hiring decision the first time. In the Lighthouse Research & Advisory 2022 Talent Acquisition Priorities Study, we asked 1,000+ employers and 1,000 candidates about assessment usage, priorities, and more.

EMPLOYERS LEANING INTO ASSESSMENTS TO VET CANDIDATE QUALITY

EMPLOYERS WHO PLAN TO PURCHASE HIRING ASSESSMENTS, BY SIZE

EMPLOYER AND CANDIDATE PRIORITIES

EMPLOYERS WANT

Accuracy is 2x more important than price when selecting assessment

Proactive/strategic talent acquisition teams are 3x more likely to prioritize assessment look and feel compared to passive teams

The number one reason companies hesitate to use assessments? They don't want to slow down the hiring process.

High performers are 2x more likely to be shopping for a new assessment provider.

CANDIDATES WANT

62% of candidates prefer an assessment that evaluates future growth and potential

4 in 10 candidates want a copy of their assessment report if they don't get the job

Diverse candidates are 67% more likely to prefer assessments and video interviews to resumes for their dynamic nature

3 in 4 candidates say that 10-20 minutes is a fair amount of time to invest in a hiring test or assessment

CONCLUSION

In today's workplace, assessments are a critical tool to make the right hiring decision, because in a tight talent market, employers often don't get a second chance. By layering in a helpful, user-friendly assessment, employers can create a more valuable candidate experience as well as a more inclusive, data-driven hiring process overall.
